To my many friends and the public generally who have in the past extended to me such a liberal share of their patronage, which has helped so materially in making my business career in Maysville such a success: I want to assure all that I fully appreciate what they have done for me, and promise that I shall, by renewed efforts, endeavor to retain the confidence of the public by pursuing the same course of fair dealing and polite attention in the future as in the past and selling the very best goods at the most reasonable prices.

My stock is now the largest and most varied it has ever been my pleasure to offer to the public consisting of every article in the Staple and Fancy Grocery line. These goods are fresh and new and of the very best quality. My last shipment of New Crop Open Kettle Molasses is now in and they are strictly fancy, and in spite of the fact that prices on these goods have materially advanced I am still selling them at the very low price of 50e per gallon. SHE COULDN'T FIND TIME Patnetic Story Containing Moral, Told by lan Maclaren One of the prettiest of Ian Maclaren's stories is called "Only a Serv ant Lass," and it's only a servant lass who is the heroine of this story The oldest of a big family of children-a poor family, of course-her pitiful wages made the great part of the family living So, of course, she hadn't time-nor money-to bother with doctors, she thought. But that swelling bothered her, and finally she

"Come back in a week or two," the doctor said, after giving her some medicine, "unless you're worse. If you are, come at once."

Six months later she "found time" to go back to see him. She had been getting rapidly worse, was suffering, but there was always something that needed to be done, and apparently no one else to do it.

It was a case of malignant tumor and an immediate operation was the only chance she had.

Her mistress was ill-the woman she had been with so many years, who had been good to her family. So she stayed a while, did the housecleaning, nursed her mistress, helped until vaeation came, and her younger sister could do her work without affecting er own school work.

And then? Then it was too late

WOULD MAKE ANYONE ANGRY. Carried Potatoes Six Miles; Camped

In a Field of Them.

"Speaking of incidents, I saw a few in the four years I spent in the Union army during the civil war," said William Kingsland, a Union army veteran living at Bucklin, Mo.

One time down in Georgia during Sherman's march to the sea, myself and another man dug about a bushel of sweet potatoes while on the march expecting to cook them when we camped about a half mile further on. 'Grub' was pretty scarce in those days and we valued those sweet potatoes pretty highly. Then we received or ders to continue the march. We didn't suppose it would be much further, as it was already almost night, so we carried the sweet potatoes on a stick beween us. We marched and marched and marched, and oh, but those potaoes grew heavy. Six miles from where we dug the potatoes we pitched camp-oh, but it makes me mad every time I think of it."

But there are living versifiers, nothing if they are not sincere, who have written the praise of those Sabbath bells. They may also have written in praise of those practice-nights. They may even have a sympathetic sonnet for the musicless rascal who tries to ring a hymn tune on a peal of bells which is not provided with the necessary accidental. MR. JOHN MANUAL.

Mr. John Manual died at his home in Dover Saturday evening at 6 o'clock of pneumonia, after only ten days illness.

About two months ago he was walking from his home to the home of his daughter only a square away, when he tripped and fell, his right side and breast striking a stone. He was knocked unconscious for a time and was badly injured internally and several ribs broken. Howdo his usual farm work.

He united with the Dover Christian Church a month ago, and only three weeks before he died he was immersed in the Ohio river by Elder Lunger, the Pastor. On the following Thursday he was taken ill in the night with a severe case of grip, which developed rapidly into pneumonia, causing his death at a time when he was thought to be improving.

Deceased was one of the most industrious farmers in the county, and was noted for the quantity and quality of the fine sweet potatoes he produced, his crops of this vegetable amounting to an average of 400 bushel a year for the

He was the son of John and Melinda Manual, and was born in Lewis county on May 29th,

He was married to Miss Lydia Virgin fifty years ago, his wife and four children surviving.

His aged wife was overcome by the shock of her husband's sudden death and is now in a very serious condition at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward McNutt, in Dover.

The remains of Mr. Manual were taken on the C. and O. yesterday morning to Manchester Station and thence to the East Fork Christian Church Cemetery in Lewis county for interment, Deceased had a premonition that he would die, and so expressed himself to the writer.

He was a good man, highly respected in his community, and greatly loved by his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Darlington Fee left on the 3:20 C. and O. train yesterday on their long voyage to the Phillippine Islands, carrying with them the blessings and best wishes of their legion of Oil poured upon the troubled waters saved the levee at Lawrenceburg, Ind. The waves were making such headway that the fight to save the town was against heavy odds until A. C. Billup, an experienced seaman, now a mechanical engineer in Lawrenceburg, suggested the plan of pouring oil on the waters. He had seen ocean vessels saved in this way in a storm, Officers and members of Ringgold Lodge No. and his suggestion was at once acted upon, and

The final figures in the report of the House member of DeKalb Lodge, from the First Committee on Rivers and Harbors show that the Ohio river will get in excess of $4,000,000 for improvements. In order to raise Dams Nes. 8, 11, 13, 18 and 37 more than $2,000,000 is provided. The next largest individual item is $1,200,000 for the construction of Lock and Dam No 26, below the mouth of the Big Kanawha river. These improvements are in consonance with the nine-foot project.

> The causes that combined to make the flood of 1884 in the Ohio valley were geographical, topographical and meteorological. The Ohio river is formed at Pittsburgh by the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers. The former has its source in numerous small creeks in the mountains of New York and Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, draining an area of 13,000 square miles. The Monongahela has its source in Tygart river, beginning in the glades of Maryland and the West Fork in West Virginia, uniting at Fairmount, W. Va. Both drain a mountainous country. Below Fairmount the Cheat river, the largest tributary of the Upper Monongahela, draining the mountains of the central part of the state, enters the Monongatela. Snow had nothing to do with the present rise in the Ohio.

Department of our store. By giving special attention to the most minute details we turn out Harness whose longevity rivals that of the Deacon's wonderful one-horse shay, which, as you all know, was so wonderfully constructed that it did not wear out in any one particular place, but, after being used for one hundred years to the minute, went to pieces all at once. Our workmen, being skilled at their work, know, as did the Deacon, that "'Tis mighty plain that the weakes' place mus' stan' the strainin', 'n the way t' fix it; uz I maintain is only jes' to make that place uz strong uz the rest." We can give you the names of some of our customers to whom we sold work harness when we first went into business, and which is still as good as new. Maysville Women are Finding Relief at Last.

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read ef a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know Mrs. J. B. I have known the value of this remedy for several years. Its use in my case proved to me that it is a reliable kidney cure and cannot be excelled for backache or weakness of the kidneys.
